HOME LEARNING

Your new home learning menus and books have been sent home. Inside the book you will find your new activities to complete, spellings to learn for the whole of summer term and a maths booklet to complete this term too.

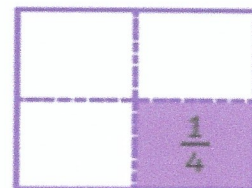

Any questions or problems – please let us know.

Please continue to be active on TTRS and Numbots and log reading on BoomReader.

Dear Parents and Carers,

A short week for us all after a lovely bank holiday weekend and excitingly, another one coming! We have been working super hard finishing our editing and writing our stories in best. Starting our new book in English – 'This is How we do it' – preparing to write our letters to New Zealand and completing our reading comprehension and inference questions in whole class reading too! Busy, busy!

In maths this week, the Beeches have been busy recognising, finding, and naming halves, quarters and thirds of shapes, objects and quantities. They have worked incredibly hard to understand the written structure of a fraction (e.g.  $\frac{1}{4}$ ) and have used a range of practical resources to support their understanding.

The children enjoyed another Forest school session in our school garden this week and how lucky we were with the weather! Our forest school leaders brought in the firepit, and the children enjoyed making bread and cooking it on the fire and let's not forget, eating it too! It is so wonderful to see the children safely exploring our garden area and the different tools provided. We were also able to continue to enjoy time outside for PE on Wednesday with Kinetic sports. The children are working on their accuracy and ball skills to support games such as rounders.

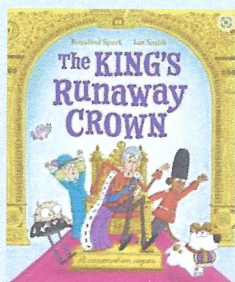

In history, the children have been considering the views held by some during the 1910s and 1960s. They examined a range of images showing how evident segregation was in some parts of America and have used primary sources to ask questions and share their ideas.

Last week, we sent home the children's new home learning menus. Please let us know if you have any questions or if your child does not have a copy. Please also let us know if you need a copy of your login for boom reader. It is incredibly important that your child reads at home and that this is logged – again, please ask if you have any questions.

We have enjoyed celebrating the coronation at school this week and hope you have a fantastic bank holiday weekend!

We will look forward to seeing you all back in school on Tuesday.
